THE TITLE OF THE ESSAY WILL GO HERE

---

By Eric Garza

May 27, 2019

This document illustrates the format I use when releasing my essays as PDFs. Only my patrons on Patreon<sup>1</sup> get access to these, everyone else can read the essay on my website, or elsewhere if it is reposted on other websites. The title is big and bold, my by line is below it, and the date the essay was released (or most recently updated) is right below that. The body of the essay has wide margins so that when folks print it out they have plenty of room to write notes. Some essays include graphics. Online versions of essays have references embedded in the text as links. The PDF versions use notes, which show up as superscripted numbers in the text<sup>2</sup> that correspond to typed references in a numbered list at the end of the essay. Text is broken up into sections, and I justify it because it looks nice to my eyes. All pages are numbered.

SECTION HEADING

You can see what a section heading looks like above. The rest of this paragraph will be a repeat of this sentence, just to fill space. The rest of this paragraph will be a repeat of this sentence, just to fill space. The rest of this paragraph will be a repeat of this sentence, just to fill space. The rest of this paragraph will be a repeat of this sentence, just to fill space. The rest of this paragraph will be a repeat of this sentence, just to fill space.
